Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to apply for the Anti-Money Laundering Analyst position at CoinFlip.

Investigating suspicious activity and assessing financial crime risk is the work I have done for nearly nine years in banking, most recently as Chief Manager at IndusInd Bank. I have conducted PEP, sanctions and adverse media screening, applied a risk-based approach to identify accounts and transactions warranting enhanced review, verified Ultimate Beneficial Ownership for legal entities including limited liability partnerships and private trusts, and escalated cases to Compliance, Operations and Internal Audit where activity or documentation required further assessment. Handling customer-reported unauthorised and suspicious transactions, and working with fraud teams on disputes and chargebacks, formed a regular part of that work.

Examining files and data to confirm that AML requirements are met is the other half of it. I have run KYC verification, remediation and periodic review, obtained Source of Funds and Source of Wealth documentation, and handled FATCA and CRS requirements. I have also maintained audit-ready records and supported internal compliance reviews, including responding to the queries those reviews generate. In my most recent role, structured file reviews and process improvements reduced documentation errors by 25 per cent, and cross-functional work on onboarding at HDFC Bank cut turnaround time by 20 per cent – the kind of measurable risk-mitigation reporting your role calls for.

My regulatory grounding is current and certified: SAQ-recognised AMLA/AMLO-FINMA 2025 training on the prevention of money laundering, the Basel Institute on Governance course on combating terrorism financing, and further certifications in risk management and in AML/KYC for banking and insurance. I have been extending that grounding into crypto AML, digital assets and virtual asset compliance, which is what draws me to CoinFlip specifically: the underlying obligations are the ones I know well, applied to an asset class and a delivery model where the typologies are still taking shape.

I work daily in Microsoft Excel and Word, am fluent in business English, and also speak Hindi and Bengali.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss my application and thank you for your consideration.

Yours sincerely,

Moumita Dey
